Third Straight Speech Victory

DOUGLAS HENSGEN receives congratulations from speech instructor Russell H. Miller, upon winning the Ogden Oratorical contest, Wednesday morning at Ogden Day chapel. The Bowling Green senior, whose subject was "Dream of Peace," had previously won the Robinson Declaration contest of 1949 and the 1950 Ogden contest. Max B. Nahm, chairman of the Ogden College board of trustees, presided over the finals Wednesday morning, in which Raymond L. Cravens and James Chamberlain also spoke. Mr. Miller coached the contestants. Judges were Mrs. Karl A. Moore, English faculty; Dr. L. C. Curry, city school superintendent; and Joe Howard, education faculty.

New Deferment Plan Set Up For College Students

The college man stands a better chance of remaining a college man, as of last week. Deferments will be granted on the basis of scholastic standing and scores made on tests to be administered in May and June at testing centers, one of which is Western.

President Truman in a sweeping order March 31, provided for the deferments for hundreds of thousands of college men.

His executive order authorized draft boards to pass over students whose grades are good enough or those who pass a written test to be given throughout the country May 26, June 1, and June 30.

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, said the scholastic standing necessary to permit exemption, and the necessary grade in the coming aptitude test, will be determined later. But a peek at the future set-up given by some congressmen is expected to be like this.

Deferment of most freshman who enter college next fall, sophomores who were in the upper half of their freshman class scholastically, juniors who were in the upper two-thirds of their sophomore class, and seniors who were in the upper three-fourths as juniors.

The tests will be given at 1,000 examination centers throughout the United States and territories. The student must pay his own transportation costs and personal expenses to and from the testing center.

This includes seniors and others who plan to enter graduate or professional schools.

The tests will be designed to determine a student's capability for learning rather than his present fund of knowledge.

Registrants can get printed instructions about the test, along with application blanks, from their local draft boards about April 12 or soon thereafter.

World Author Alber To Speak On Kremlin

"Kremlin Blueprint," an address which is the result of 25 years' study of Russia and six months spent behind the iron curtain, will be given at chapel, Wednesday, April 25, by Louis J. Alber.

Through this subject, Mr. Alber will reveal the details of Stalin's plans to take over the world in the name of a spurious communism.

Prominent as an author, traveler, and foreign correspondent, Mr. Alber, from Cleveland, has traveled extensively, especially in Europe where he has talked with leaders in the democratic, fascist, and communist countries.

"East of the iron curtain," he saw firsthand how a small, well-organized communist minority took over the government in six countries. Since World War II he has been telling and explaining to Americans this communistic danger we face.

As manager of celebrated lecturers, Mr. Alber has managed such celebrities as Winston Churchill, William Howard Taft, Will Rogers, and Prince William of Sweden. While on his American lecture tour, Mr. Churchill had Mr. Alber as his manager.

Having spent six months continually with Mr. Churchill and visited him on several other occasions, Mr. Alber knows so much about this famous man that Bernard Baruch once said of him, "Alber undoubtedly knows the human side of Winston Churchill better than any other American."

He has given addresses in Canada and the British Isles as well as in the United States. Parts of his addresses have appeared in such magazines as the American Mercury, Reader's Digest, World Digest, Current History, and Strand Magazine of London.

Air ROTC Grads Will Go On Active Duty

Air ROTC students who graduate in May will be called to active duty immediately, according to Major William N. Pace Jr., professor of air science and tactics.

Veterans who complete their ROTC training have choice of accepting a commission and going on active duty, or not accepting a commission and finishing school. However, if they choose to accept commission it is the policy of the Air Force to allow them to remain in school until they complete the degree.

Withdrawal from school makes them subject for call to active duty.

This announcement was authorized by the commanding general of the First Air Force.

Western Program For KEA Fills April 11-13

Current Events

College students seldom complain about having nothing to do with their time; the mental controversy is usually a decision they have to make of what to do first.

Among the foremost factors one should consider when he budgets his time is the keeping up with current events. Everyone can find at least 15-20 minutes in his day that can most profitably be spent reading the newspaper or current literature.

Knowledge and awareness of current events go much farther toward making a person intelligently informed than all history courses combined.

Therefore, because most college men and women attend college to get an education, they should be brought to realize the educational value of informing themselves of prevailing world-wide happenings.

Radio, newspapers, and periodicals provide a great opportunity for learning, and it is the individual's own lack of realization or of common sense that causes him not to take full advantage of their offerings.

You cannot depict humanity without having some idea about it—that is, without viewing it in some specific manner, seeing some specific drama in its actions, setting it in some sort of opposition to an ideal. The baldest description of anything so complex as a man must needs be nine-tenths opinion.

—H. L. Mencken

Chapter One— The Skinny Boy's Diet

The latest contribution to journalism, a series of articles called "The Fat Boy's Diet," has found a great many readers among Western students.

More than one student with a bulging beltline has been checking his calorie slide rule before drinking that second milk shake or attacking the daily buffet and a piece of cake served at the cafeteria.

This Fat Boy Diet Editor of the Courier-Journal says it's not stylish to be a corpulent collegian and that it's not necessary, now that the Fat Boy's Slide Rule for calories can lose you as many as 14 pounds in six days.

PRETTY SOON, according to this, there will not be any fat boys or girls left, and if you want to see one you will have to go to a carnival. All this because of a slide rule.

By that time I hope they get around to giving some attention to a long-neglected individual, the skinny boy. This poor fellow—who has trouble standing up on a windy day, who dares not fail to wear a belt in public, and who sometimes gets a refund from a sympathetic set of pay scales—surely deserves some attention too.

I feel then that it is my duty as an editor who wishes to be of service to his readers to write upon the Skinny Boy's Diet.

One thing I realize, however, is that many skinny people don't want to be otherwise. Lankiness is their chief asset. For instance, to qualify as a college basketball player or a popular male singer you can not afford to be much more than a skeleton.

Another thing is that very few girls worry about being underweight. Of course if it's localized, Max Factor and other companies have supplies to solve the problem for skinny girls.

But for those of you who want to put on weight, by eating, here's the simple rule—just consume more calories.

That's all there is to it. Consume more calories, which means to eat more starch, sugar, cream, and stuff like that.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, the place to start your weight-gaining campaign is the Potter Hall Cafeteria. Just check on the Skinny Boy's Calorie Chart some time and you'll see that I am right.

First, they realize that potatoes and green peas are literally loaded with calories, and that explains why approximately one-half of the cafeteria rations consist of these two delicacies.

And why is the meat served here tough? More calories. They figure it this way. The longer a cow or a hog lives the more he eats and naturally the more calories he consumes. It's only logical then, that aged animals should have picked up more calories than tender young livestock. To insure plenty of calories, the cafeteria buys no meat that is not from an animal at least five years old.

You get more calories when you chew a long time. Another reason for tough meat—so you'll have to chew it longer.

Eating between meals puts on weight too. That is why they want you to be still hungry when you leave the cafeteria—so you will have to eat between meals.

You can easily see that it's pretty simple to get heavier in a hurry by following the cafeteria diet and our Skinny Boy's Slide Rule and Calorie Chart.

So ends the first (and last) chapter in our one-installment series on the Skinny Boy's Diet. Readers who want the Skinny Boy's Slide Rule should address requests to Skinny Boy Diet Editor, College Heights Herald.

MUSICAL AU REVOIR

I'm pretty slow at catching double meanings, but I'm sure there's more to this song than somebody's liking the tune.

Bradley had treated the Hilltoppers like kings during their stay in Peoria, and Western had almost beaten the Braves. But Western lost 75-71.

With the game all over, Western bowed out of the tournament and the Bradley band played "So Long. It's Been Good To Know You."

SOME DEFINITIONS

Miss Emma Stith of the English faculty says that a definition based on the connotation rather than the denotation of a word is often the most interesting one. Among her collection are these "definitions":

Scall Boy—noise with dirt on it.
Forever—a license, a ring, and the words "I do."
Changed Styles—lengthened dresses worn with forgotten petticoats.

Fall—the puckery taste of that eagerly awaited first persimmon.

Study—a weaving fountain pen throwing grotesque shadows on the wall; two chimes and all's well.

Traffic-jam—a lady crossing a street with her poodle.

Easter—a tired hat come home to rest.

ABREY'S BADGE IS ORIGINAL

As far as we know, no other patrolman in the United States has a set of badges exactly like those belonging to Aubrey Hoofnel, campus patrolman.

These new chrome creations aren't just ordinary jobs. They were designed by the Herald cartoonist, Lewis Cravens, and produced by the Wentworth Company of Boston. We think they did a good job, and if you take a look you'll agree.

Aubrey, who's been in his present job on the Hill for 38 years, says this is the first set of new badges that he's ordered in more than 15 years.

Debaters Discuss What Western Could Improve

By Evelyn Bailey

Suggestions for the improvement of Western were set forth in a symposium produced by the Congress Debating club, March 26. Members of the club conducted the symposium which was on the question, "Can Western Be Made a Better School?"

Five speakers presented the discussion: George B. Simpson, chairman; James Chamberlain; Thomas Pogue; Gene Croft; and Hugh Nofsinger.

Speeches of the symposium members were developed from suggestions made by the faculty and student body. The following is a list of the suggested improvements in physical, administrative and curriculum, and social aspects of Western:

PHYSICAL IMPROVEMENTS—

- (1) provision of soap and towels in rest rooms; (2) time-clock adjustment for more efficiency; (3) heat control in class buildings; (4) faculty parking space.
- (5) cover for swimming pool; (6) Student Union Building; (7) more trash cans for cigarette butts and waste paper; (8) larger bulletin board in Cherry Hall; (9) improvement of cafeteria's facilities; (10) ringing of the Cherry Hall chimes again.

Administrative and curriculum

Miss Eaton's Father Dies At Paducah

William V. Eaton, father of Miss Mary Francis Eaton, of the Training School, and former State senator, died at his home at Paducah, March 28. He was 77 years old.

A native of Warren county, Senator Eaton attended Southern Normal School, Bowling Green, prior to 1900. He also attended South Kentucky College, Hopkinsville, and read law in the offices of Goad and Gilliam, Scottsville. He married Miss Cora Pollis, Bowling Green, in 1901.

Mr. Eaton was admitted to the bar in 1899, and was admitted to practice before the Court of Appeals in 1900 and before the United States Supreme Court in 1912. He was elected to the State Senate in 1909.

The oldest practicing attorney in Paducah and McCracken county, Mr. Eaton held the title of Dean of McCracken county attorneys. He served on the Paducah City Commission in 1920 and in 1921, was city solicitor under the commission form of Government, and later served as city corporation counsel under the city manager form.

Other survivors are his wife; a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Shelby Eaton, Chicago; two sons, Dr. William V. Eaton and Warren Eaton, Paducah; a sister, Mrs. Ethel McQueen, Nashville and three grandchildren.

- suggestions—(1) better instruction in the physical education activity courses; (2) enlarged and expanded intra-mural sports for women as well as men; (3) more emphasis on minor and spring sports; (4) an enlarged program of student participation in chapel activities;

- (5) chapel attendance fostered by compulsory means or by allotting college credits; (6) make-up courses conducted by student teachers for students who are deficient in particular fields; (7) need for Dean of Women and Dean of Men; (8) permanent faculty counseling program for all students;

- (9) provision for a program of assistance for registration of freshmen; (10) more pep rallies and parades; (11) a gradual program for adjusting to a modified form of student government; (12) courses in courtship, marriage, and family relations.

SOCIAL SUGGESTIONS—

- (1) more formal social events and fewer blue jean affairs; (2) better regulation of the existing laws which prohibit the use of alcohol in campus socials and sport events.

The Congress Debating club, in seeking to alleviate the registration problem, plans to sponsor a program of counselship for freshmen during registration. The club will provide students who are capable of giving advice about registration and will cooperate with the faculty and administration in making the program effective.

The Congress Debating club said that a permanent faculty counselship and guidance program for all students should be initiated.

A debate is to be held April 9, at 7:00 p. m., in the Little Theater. The question at this debate will be "Student Government."

All students are invited, and the floor will be open for audience participation after the debate.

Members of the cast were: Gaye Lively, Gloria Butler, Jean Topmiller, Mary Anne Hayes, Jane Ann Melton, Paul Hudspeth, David Cooper, and Billy Grant.

SAULMAN'S FATHER DIES

Earl Saulman has returned from Corydon, Indiana, where he was called because of the illness and death of his father, Oscar Saulman.

A Tribute To Mrs. T. C. Cherry

By Gordon Wilson

The recent death of Mrs. T. C. Cherry removed from Western one of its most faithful teachers and friends. She came to the Southern Normal School as a teacher when she was quite young. Some time afterwards she married Mr. T. C. Cherry, one of the Cherry Brothers who had founded and were developing the school, the predecessor of Western. Through the years when she was rearing her two sons and her daughter she taught private classes in expression but kept up her vital connection with the school she loved so much. In 1923 she returned to full-time teaching and remained a devoted member of the English Department until she retired in 1947. No one ever gave any more distinctive service to our college. She taught every class as if it were the most important thing in the world; her students came to feel that they were in the presence of a great teacher, a great student, a great interpreter of literature. In spite of her heavy teaching schedule through the years, she was very active in college life and in the civic and intellectual life of Bowling Green. As the wife of the city superintendent of schools she attended many programs with him and took a very active part in literary clubs. Somehow she never seemed too busy to add one more duty or responsibility.

Among her many good qualities I admired most her marvelous physical vitality, her graciousness, and her convictions. Though she was a small person, she had the energy of a giant. Until just a few years before her retirement she walked daily to school from her home, more than a mile away, in a rapid walk that would have tired most people. In all the years that she taught at Western she did not miss a day from sickness. She kept up her activity until the end. On the day of her death she drove her car from town. One of the members of the English Department saw her and remarked on her vigor and her boundless enthusiasm. She was planning to come back to the campus for a visit, saying that she had missed all of us and wanted to renew acquaintances after the long, hard winter.

In every way she was a gracious lady. Reared in a good home, with opportunities that were exceptional for that time or even today, she believed that she owed humanity something. Consequently, she was very democratic. She loved to help the student who had had a hard time, who had been denied a chance to get an education easily. No one ever met her without feeling better for her cheerfulness, her unfailing good manners, her delight in living. Until her last days she kept up her studies. Only a few people knew that she studied botany constantly under one of the great scholars in that field. She often startled me by her knowing so many things not immediately connected with teaching English. We rarely saw her when she had not just read or reread some good book, and she loved to talk about the changing emphases in our contemporary writings. Her house was a reflection of her good taste and her constant interest in things of education and culture.

Best of all I liked her convictions. Through the years she had developed some opinions that she believed in very strongly, though she was tolerant of the beliefs of others. It was not necessary to ask where she stood when any question of morals or civic benefit came up. Firmly, though graciously, she took her stand, in a way that made us all respect her. Many of us got into the habit of conferring with her when we were discouraged; her philosophy nearly always put us back on our feet. It was impossible to resist the calm wisdom and sane advice that we knew she had for us. As Dr. Horton said at her funeral, quoting Edwin Markham's tribute to Lincoln, her going is like the fall of a great tree that "leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

Golf Season Opens Today

The Western golf team opens the season today meeting the Eagles of Tennessee Tech. on the home course. Tomorrow they will play host to the University of Kentucky. The Topper team, individual and team champions of the O. V. C. for the past two years, will play eleven matches this season.

Coach Frank Griffin lost two of his championship foursomes by graduation, but he still has John Coleman, individual O. V. C. champion, and Frank Newman, another top contender. Both are sophomores, and the only returning lettermen.

Because of Western's domination of the O. V. C., the 36 hole medal play tournament, which will be played May 18-19, was moved from Bowling Green, to Cookeville, Tenn., home of Tenn. Tech.

Over the past four seasons, the Toppers have played and beaten some of the top college competition. Last year's record was eleven wins, and only four losses.

The schedule is as follows:

April 16	Russellville	Away
April 23	Glasgow	Away
April 30	Russellville	Home
May 14	Glasgow	Home

Track Team To Meet Tenn. Tech In First Match

The first track meet will be with Tennessee Tech here on April 27, according to Turner Elrod, head track coach.

Two other meets have been scheduled: Tennessee Tech, there, May 5; and Murray, there May 15. The O. V. C. meet will be May 18, 19, at Tenn. Tech.

Carrying the burden for the Toppers this year will be Sam Short, Max Stevens, George Simpson, Robert Simpson, Willis Simpson, Buck Grant, Virgil Schulte, John Drago, Robert Elmer, Charles Shelds, John Wesley, Joseph Allen, Willie Watson, Buddy Sydnor, Norman House, Grandvill Le Grande, Jim Sacca, Harry Greschel, Sterling Gibson, Frank Busse, Joe Goodman, Eddie Ward, Bill Ploumis, John Szabiel, Harry Duncan, Gene McPadden, Joe Collins, John Sowders, and Cecil Schirtzinger.

Hilltoppers Turn Back Miami 10-7 In Baseball Opener

A 15-hit attack propelled Western past Miami (O) University 10-7 Wednesday in the opening baseball game of the season for both squads.

Hustling into a 5-1 first-inning lead, the Hilltoppers fashioned a 10-3 bulge after six frames and then called on relief Pitcher Al Griffin to stop the challenging Redskins in the final two rounds.

Veteran Shortstop Hal Taylor led the attack of Coach Ed Diddle's nine with three singles. Bill Delph and Dyke Vest drove in three runs apiece with a brace of singles.

RELIEF PITCHER Dan King struck the biggest blow of the game, however, a line drive home run over the right fielder's head with none on in the sixth.

Miami collected but seven hits off starter John Bickel, King and Griffin. Four of them were triples, however. The Redskins further profited from 10 walks and two hit-batters.

They got to Bickel for only one hit in his four-inning stint. But he walked eight and hit two batters, retiring with a 7-3 lead.

Miami did not get a ball out of the infield off the massive King in the fifth or sixth. But the freshman fire-baller tired after slamming his homer in Western's three-run sixth.

and departed the premises after the seventh with the lead cut to 10-7. Griffin was joined for three bingles in his two rounds. But he held the Redskins scoreless with a sneaking delivery and received credit for the triumph.

HE OWNED a big part of the win to third baseman Eddie Wyatt, who killed a budding bases-filled, two-out rally in the eighth by snaring a double-labelled liner off the bat of Jim May.

Two passes, a hit-batter and infield out gave Miami a run in the first. Western got that one back and four more to boot in its first turn.

Singles by Jimmy Miller and Taylor and an error loaded the bags with one away. A walk to Bob Back forced in a run before Delph smote a two-run single to right. Buck Grant moved up Back and Delph with a bunt. Then Vest shot another single good for two tallies.

With two away in the second, Shortstop Dick Schultz tripled home Miami's second run and scored the third on a wild pitch.

Singles by George Simmons, Back, Delph and Vest sandwiched around a Grant sacrifice made it 7-3 in Western's third.

AFTER KING homered in the sixth, Eddie Wyatt doubled and Taylor beat out a bunt. Richard White's two-out single enrolled Wyatt, Taylor made it home on a wild pitch.

An error, walk, two consecutive triples and a fielder's choice accounted for the four Miami runs off King in the seventh.

After Wyatt pulled Griffin out of a serious jam in the eighth, the relief hurler pulled himself out in the ninth. Jim Wilkinson led off with a triple on which Vest made an exceptionally rapid retrieve. He languished on third as Griffin struck out the next batter and then gave his mates a pair of easy fielding chances.

Miller, freshman second baseman, made a pair of sparkling fielding plays. Wyatt on third handled five chances errorlessly.

The Hilltoppers open their OVC season at Evansville Saturday and should benefit considerably from yesterday's solid win over a veteran and strong Miami.

Red-Grey Grid Game Scheduled For April 20

The "W" club will sponsor the annual Red and Grey game to be played at 8:00 p.m., April 20.

The student body will see the preview of the 1951 edition of the Western Football team.

The Red and Grey game originated the spring of '48. At this time the game was a rough and tumble affair and the Red team won by a score of 6-0.

An interview with players of the first game brought this reply on the game. "One of the hardest games I have played." Another reply, "That was the toughest team that I have played against."

A week before the game is scheduled, Coach Jack Clayton will divide the Topper squad into two camps, the Red and the Grey. Coach Frank Griffin will take one squad, and Coach Turner Elrod will take the other.

In past years, the week before the game is to be played, the rivalry starts to build up. By game time, both teams are arch rivals and the game turns into one of the top football performances played in the Hilltopper Stadium.

Bradley Edges Western In Campus Tourney

By Wally Sullivan
Syracuse University, behind at one time 18-0, fought back in the final minutes of play to beat the Bradley Braves 76-75 in the finals Saturday night of the first National Campus Basketball Tournament held at the Robertson Memorial Fieldhouse, Peoria, Ill., March 27-31.

First round games saw Bradley down Western Kentucky 75-71, Wyoming drop Duquesne 78-61, Syracuse spill Toledo 69-52, and Utah upset Villanova 67-65. In the semi-finals, Bradley thumped Wyoming 77-63, and Syracuse trimmed Utah 74-57 to gain the finals.

WESTERN'S HILLTOPPERS made a startling come back in the final seconds of play to pull within four points of the Bradley Braves, before bowing out 75-71, March 27.

Trailing 75-66 with only 52 seconds of play remaining in the game, the Toppers rallied, and almost pulled the game out of the fire. Western muffed two craps, and three free throws in the final minute of play.

Bradley jumped into an early first quarter lead of 24-16, mainly on the performance of Fred Schlichtman, but with only 2 minutes gone in the second quarter, the Toppers had narrowed the margin to just 23-22.

Western caught the Braves again at 44-all, and went ahead for the only time in the game 46-44, but Bradley suddenly came to life, and led at the end of the third period 57-52, largely on the services of Jim Kelly, a substitute center.

Bradley continued to push ahead, leading 75-66 with only 52 seconds remaining to be played. It was here that the Toppers began to catch up, but the lead was just too much to overcome.

WESTERN'S GENE RHODES turned in a masterful performance, racking up 14 points, while holding All-American Gene Melchiorre to just six points before fouling out with 4 minutes to be played in the game.

The game was a rough but clean one, with 58 personals being called on both teams, 32 on Western and 26 on Bradley.

Two major factors in the Hill-

Sportfolio

By James E. Hobby

If Western's basketballers, Frank Wallace, Art Spoelstra, and Dan King, take to the mound this year, the Toppers will have probably the tallest pitchers of any college in the O. V. C. Wallace stands 6'10", King 6'5", and Spoelstra 6'8".

Imagine a man nearly 6 feet standing up to face a pitcher 6'10" who is standing on a mound about 10 inches high, making him look 7'8".

Western has such an array of backs this year that Coach Clayton is thinking of converting Robert E. (Bubber) Simpson to end. Simpson was the only Topper to score against the University of Louisville in 1948 when he was a freshman.

The sports schedule of Gene Rhodes, Richard White, Monie Beard, Dan King, Art Spoelstra, Charles Rawlings, Frank Wallace, and Dyke Vest, basketballers, is a full one, as all finished the basketball season and went right on to baseball.

Gene Rhodes, Western classy guard, did a great job in holding Rhodes's All-American Gene Melchiorre to 6 points while scoring 14 himself before fouling out in the second half.

Bradley University's venture in staging the first National Campus Basketball Tournament proved very successful in a number of ways.

Each of the four sessions was a sellout in the Robertson Memorial Fieldhouse, which seats 8,300. Bradley is to be congratulated upon the excellent management of the tournament.

Various Bradley campus groups, such as fraternities and sororities, were assigned certain teams to "back" during the tournament so that each might have a cheering section. Also each team had its own queen, selected from Bradley's co-eds.

Officials announced that the tournament was a success and that it would become an annual event.

In a recent check of facts, Western ranks 5th, and the University of Kentucky 8th, over the past 14 years in collegiate basketball offense. Western averaged 71.5 points per game, and U. of K. 69.9.

Kentucky ranks 1st in won and lost percentage over the past ten years, with a record of 250 wins, and 40 losses for a fine 86.2 per cent. Western is 6th, with 223 wins and 66 losses for a good 77.2 per cent of their games.

Rumors have it that Fairdale's Forrest Able will be added to the Hilltopper basketball squad next year. Able averaged 27 points per game last season.

President of the Richmond branch is Mrs. Mary Barnhill, formerly of Western's English department faculty.

The purpose of the fellowship committees of the various AAUW branches is to provide fellowships to give deserving women opportunities to continue work already begun or to help others begin some work in a scholarly field.

Included in her tour were stops at Harrodsburg, Versailles, Berea, and the Old Kentucky Home in Bardonia. At Versailles Miss Stonecipher visited Mrs. Arnold Guess, AB '50.

Last week Miss Stonecipher attended the March 29-31 meeting of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South held in Memphis.
